

You just Met someone who Tested COVID-19 Positive. Are You Safe?

Even as the Corona virus cases in India are increasing at an alarming rate every passing day, people have slowly but surely started venturing out to accept the new normal.

As businesses resume their normal operations and markets flood with visitors, chances coming in contact with a COVID-19 positive person or contracting the disease increases.

Understanding how closely you were in contact with the infected person

The more people you come in contact with an infected person, the more likely are you to get infected with the disease.

According to CDC, a close contact would imply you have been inside 6 feet radius of someone with COVID-19 for 15 minutes or more, beginning from two days before the illness (in case of asymptomatic patients, two days before the test result out to be positive.)

Please note that it is irrespective of whether the infected person was wearing a mask or not.
